A booklet I wrote in 1995

Aloha LoveTribe,

I was thinking about mother, as the source of life. Of motherhood, as I often joke, Sainthood training and the discovery of unconditional love. And the surrender of being in the arms of the mother, discovering the trust, the love, to be. This little booklet was my journey as a mother, channeling Mother and resting in the arms of The Mother. It was written as a Mothers Day gift to the LoveTribe in 1995 and somehow showed up on my desk today.

Robert said as a Mothers Day gift he will scan it and create a link for any of you who'd like to read it, I'll send a link when it's ready.

As gift from all of us Outback, you can pick up a (free) scarf or pair of socks in the shop from now through Mothers Day along with 20% off all accessories and 1 item of clothing. Though we celebrate mothers everyday, we support any acknowledgment/celebration in her honor!

This Mothers Day I propose taking the time for loving mothers ... all mothers. Even the ones judged as not doing a good job, honor them for the courage to be a mother. And then imagine being in the arms of an unconditional loving presence, there for you fully, completely, (w)holy.

And as a mother ... Be Fearless - Choose Love
xoxo Devi

Solitaire Dress, Asian Eye bag, scarf and hat. Gobi shoes ... worn by Heather

My favorite "dress" this season, worn dressy or casual and incredibly comfortable AND flattering for sizes S-1X. This 2 pc dress can be worn in many ways. The long skirt can also be worn as a dress. The top is actually a great dress above the knee. This also comes in a 3/4 sleeve version. This dress is made casual with these comfy shoes, bracelet and tribal necklace, worn by Heather.

JW Dress, Bernie Mev Shoes, Sunhat I picked up in a craft market in Ibiza, South African hand made and sewn, ergonomic shoes.
