Aloha Love Tribe,

I've been slow to write... busy with a new "project"! And here he is ... still to be named, Shaye's new baby (my new grandbeing) ... as she says, her "person with a penis"! If you have names you love, let us know. So far... West, River, Asa, Kahlil, Shay, Taye, Mani, Kobe ...

It was a magical pregnancy, birth and baby, for a bit of the story and pics, see at the end of this email.

The day I learned of Shayes' pregnancy, I learned my "bestie" Dana found out she had a week to two, to live. It was 2 weeks, as I have shared in a past newsletter and shared that I also "lost" 3 other long time good friends in that few month period. What a year... eh?! Honoring my friends (no longer in body) and yours is my Dia de los Muertos tricky teaching.

A teaching and a trick of the alchemy of love and loss

Yes, it takes time and tears to ease the pain of loss, yet as we "dance" with the spirit/energy of our beloveds no longer in body, we are fed by feeling their essence within. We can honor our loss by seeing it transformed and transforming within us. Seeing the gifts of our beloved within us. Some of the gifts I've received from my loved ones this past year are; a fierce, fearless love of life, of adventure of story telling and of personal truth telling. The trick is to see our beloveds unique spirit now integrated in our multidimensional dna, no matter what species our beloved was.

Here's our line-up of treats and treasures...

The treats

Fourth St on Halloween day is having a street wide party. Ashland has a very fun parade down Main St. where we have front row seats! And there is a parade from the elementary school in the Point. Most of the shops are serving some fun drinks, snacks and activities! We will have treats for all, and fun festive costuming.

And a special treat this week, through election day (if you vote)!

Shaye first announces her pregnancy (wearing a Johnny Was dress) at a "Baby Q" family announcement and celebration. After a grounding Tibetan Bowl sound healing by Edie, the next picture shows her feet being washed in rose petal waters, when her waters gushed and "labor" officially began!

It was an auspicious beginning with my good friends in a spontaneous baby, mama, belly, birthing blessing, hosted by Clare Ulman. Although she hadn't slept in 4 days, Shaye was able to be very present and watch with a large mirror, the birth and welcome in her baby. They are well, happy and in love!
