Aloha LoveTribe ... working on our Family Affair

Outback x Library

The whole family is working away on the new shop/library. Diva brightening up the space with our Merry Everything message, while Kobe is putting finishing touches on the floor (spray bottle in hand) that mama Shaye painted. It's a pop up, so the jobs are "quickies". Robert is building racks and soon we will bring in the clothing, shoes, jewelry and accessories.

We will be clearing out our warehouse including Shaye's past libraries that went into storage, some of these pieces vintage, some high end one of a kind designer art pieces and some that were loved but basics that will go into $3 & $5 baskets, $10 racks. Plus new clothing to clear from the warehouse in that cheap mix.*

AND ... da daaa... Outback (mostly unworn) samples from the many collections we produced and sold to thousands of shops in the 80's and 90's. Most of these lines were made with fabrics that we designed and produced which would be very expensive to produce these days even if the large scale repeat knitting machines could be found (which I haven't been able to do!). These will be priced high, but will be part of our private (membership) lending library along with other favorites new and vintage from Shaye and my personal collections. More on how the library works later.*

NOW... for your part of this family affair - bring in those beautiful pieces you love but no longer wear for clothing credit. It is our way of taking responsibility that the clothing we sell doesn't go into landfill or dead space in your closet. When you buy a meal out you don't think, well I paid good money for this so I need to hold onto it. No, you eliminate it! And it's important to keep your space clean by eliminating everything no longer nourishing. And RECYCLE! This way allows you to experiment, play, dress newly without the huge production carbon footprint. And allows for us to buy quality (that can be reused) from designers creating beauty and new concepts.*

We want to start with "designer pieces" from Outback, Citron, Johnny Was, Nor, Luuka, Isabel de Pedro, Maria P Grazia, Pile ou Face, the pieces other than the inexpensive basics for now, that you bought at Outback. They must be in season (fall/winter), and in good shape (clean, no tears, stains, etc). The credit will be from $8-20 for separates and up to $40 for coats. You'll get more than a resale shop that pays or gives credit out right (plus only takes a few pieces if any), and less than a shop that keeps on consignment, although not guaranteed to sell. And of course we'll take donations!

We're experimenting to find better models that are also financially sustainable, thus the combo of resale and library.

Clothing will be accepted at any of our shops (in Ashland we will start a recycled rack in the store).

Please only bring in during the week, not on weekends and not during sales or Holidays.

Towards the fun! Merry Everything! xoxo Devi (and family)
