Growing with the Flow ...

The video below is for those that didn't know of our closing our Berkeley space

Dear LoveTribe

This is the last week before this Tibetan Sand painting begins to blow away in the winds of change ... though we will keep it open until July 30th while we move out. I signed a short term agreement this week for another space, 1733 4th st.next to Tesla. It's only 3 months with a month to month afterwards. Although short term, it is an easier transition and unique opportunity. These are times of great change (and needed change). The way I handle change is with curiosity, awareness of all aspects of the situation, while looking for the opportunities and gifts of the change. As my friend Joanne says, "This is it turning out"!

The challenge of change we all face is to watch out for justifying our upsets with blame and anger. As we continue on our path of transformation to the "awareness of our oneness". Meanwhile let's focus on what we want to become, not overcome.
