Dear LoveTribe

Life is intense these days for sure. Big changes, tho needed changes. As I see it, we're shifting from our "colonial" world view back to an "Indigenous" world view (recognizing the awareness of our oneness with all of life).

So mustering up the attitude of gratitude, bringing the joy and peace that comes from being in the moment with gratitude, is a daily, hourly, moment by moment practice. When we're in those moment by moment times, each moment we can rescue with gratitude, even for the simplest things, builds our muscle for the next moment. And as strength builds, for the next hour, then days, then weeks and can even turn the tides to trusting and finding joy in the flow of life. Each moment of gratitude adds to our collective joy. We can do this LoveTribe!

Let's start with a moment of gratitude for the native peoples of this land. Thank you for showing us how to grow the food on this land and survive. Thank-you for keeping the neural connections necessary for the awareness of our oneness. As we shift into this awareness and out of the colonial survival mind that is fighting it's last battle for control.

Hsiao- Yee is back... yay! She was in Taiwan for a few weeks and all that know her missed her. She generates big gratitude in me and all of us Outback! As does all the wonderful women of Outback.

Hsiao-Yee is wearing our locally made flow pant made out of left over stock. Wearing an Outback organic cotton cowl top (made locally), "All Black" shoes

And to all of you, our LoveTribe. Thanks for the patronage, the love and appreciation you've shown us for many years and in our current shifting sands. And thank you for the beauty, talents, inspiration and gifts you bring to our world.

Being Fearless-Choosing Love,
xoxo Devi

PS Dear Ashland LoveTribe. There has been a confusion about our Liquidation sign. Yes, we have been planning for closing in January. We gave notice and our fabulous landlady has put it on the market, although she wants us to stay and has been working in partnership with us. Since then as things keep shifting ... we won't be able to physically close in January, so we shifted to February. Also in the meantime our staff has tightened up and we have a fabulous new manager Kayla, who also spent time working with us in our Berkeley shop. Between these occurrences and making it through the most challenging months financially ... we just might continue! Note: Our Liquidation sign blew down and we haven't put it back up! We welcome all ideas for better use of the space during the winter months, bringing more energy, joy and $$ to cover the overhead.
