Miraculous New Year LoveTribe!

One of my many New Years' miracles: I lost my iPhone in a move I was managing (along with my 1 year old (going on 8!) grandson Kobe. I must have put my phone on top of the car while I was putting him into his car seat, and it must have fallen off a block and a half away when I was making a U turn. My password for my Apple ID which was the only way I could activate my "find my phone" wouldn't work (after MANY tries). And Apple said they could only locate after 3 days if my phone still had a signal! Shayne asked if I felt I would find it and I said yes. (even tho this personal "signal" wasn't strong).

And I did find it! Miraculously after 2 days I tried my ID again and it worked! Find my phone showed it in a large grassy area in the middle of the wide street. It had gone through a night of rain, it had the sparkle side of a very sparkly cover brightly lit in the sun and was 2 feet into a very busy street! It wasn't taken, it wasn't run over and it worked perfectly!
And it gave me 2 days of a phone sabbatical that I really needed!

A good example of believe, expect, trust, ask, and gratitude. This led to an enhanced belief and along with the recognizing it as a miracle and being grateful for this gift, it led to a day of finding other things that had been lost! Miracles build on each other. And living in the flow of these everyday miracles make life so much more peaceful and fun. And opens us up to our hearts desires and larger miracles.

Here's a re-cap about this from last email:

Miracles a Plenty in 2020.

Here's a few of my "tricks" to more masterful miracle manifestations.

1. Believe in magic ... it expands our small, limited beliefs to something much richer, much grander, much more fun, while enhancing our innate abilities to manifest.

2. Expect miracles, ask for specific wishes and recognize them when they happen. Scenario: You only have a few minutes to dash into a shop at a busy time, on a street with limited parking. Since I've been doing this for years, someone (almost) always pulls out for me right in front of where I'm going. The more you practice and name these small miracles, the larger the bandwidth for bigger ones. And the flow of your life becomes MUCH easier.

3. Gratitude. The more you appreciate that which you have, the more of that will flow to you. Shift your gaze from complaints (after you name what it is you don't want and feel your feelings), to what it is that is working about the situation or the person and feel that feeling. That's why gratitude works ... it's saying, Yes please! More of that! to the universal energies.

PS Not happening? Trust (this too will change and right now it is life expanding), curiosity (I wonder why this challenge is in my life? I wonder the gift it will bring?)

I wonder when I'll graduate from this pattern (S#!)Loving Kindness I love myself (and others) for being here and doing the best we can in this moment.

May your miracles flow as you open to allow them in.

Miracles a plenty in 2020!

xoxo Devi
